THE TRAV- IS RE-UNION

A Delightful Affair, Plenty of Good Cheer And an Excellent Spread of Dinner.

The Travis reunion was a grand success, although about 500 of the best looking Travises were absent.

People began gathering early, and by ten o'clock the large tent was filled, besides the woods were full of people all around the place.

The exercises began at ten o'clock with singing, led by S. B. McNeely, followed with prayer, by John Irvin Travis, of Cynthierville. Rev. James F. Price, in his own artful and eloquent manner, outlined the program for the day, and announced the purpose of the meeting. There were several short sketches of the family, brought to this meeting by different members and read. Your favorite servant was appointed to read poems, his reminiscences. A portion history of aunt Rachel's family, a tribute of respect to uncle Harvey, a history of the reunion held twenty years ago, a summarized narration of the adventures of Crittenden County, naming the places where settled were all these reading were interspersed by singing, congregational songs appropriate for such an occasion, also, by appropriate short talks and sermons, etc., explanatory, or implements to the particular occasion by our infallible chairman, Rev. Price.

There were present Travis's from Crittenden, Henderson, Union, Webster, Marion, and Livingston counties, each, with their relatives about two hundred. G. D. Summersville and uncle Billie Joe Hill were both there with their usual amount of good humor and friendliness for every body. Candidates galore. If all the candidates who were there are elected to office in Crittenden County we will have to build two more new court houses, three or four jails and an another post office to accommodate them, but we know this will not be the case, and we rejoice to see them enjoy one more good day this side of Salt River. If Woodrow Wilson had been present and had seen and partaken of the dinner that was there he surely would have forgotten his entreaties to plant and tend the hungry and scattered for a land of plenty. Dinner! I guess! Dr. Frazer was there with his usual dead earnestness, but this time it turned to living earnestness, and he made a Red Cross speech that brought more than twenty joiners to this very important branch of service in our struggle for National freedom. Uncle Billie Joe Hill read some very interesting notes about the Travis family, along with other things. In the afternoon the body resolved itself into a religious assembly, and an old-fashioned testimony meeting was had, in which many took part. At 2:30 p.m., Rev. Price was to have preached, this being the regular time for the protracted service which had been in progress at that place for ten days, but a rain came and scattered the congregation, and we adjourned.

A "big time?" I should say! A Grand Re-union, but we live in a hope that we will all be permitted to participate in a grander one over yonder. Following is a constellation of Travis name and characteristics.

SOME REMINISCENCES OF THE

TRAVIS NAME IN CRITTENDEN CO. While the name of Travis is of English origin our knowledge of the family begins in Ireland with one Francis Travis. This same Francis had two sons, Francis and John. From these two, I am able to trace only two families.

John Travis had a son Francis, the father of Cullen Travis whose family is well known in the county today. Mary, of California; John and Grant, of Marion; and George, of this neighborhood, are the living children of Cullen Travis. The second Francis Travis had a son, Daniel Travis. This Daniel had a son, James, by name. This same James Travis was the husband of the noted aunt Rachel, the progenitors of a large family. The sons were John, James Harvey, Daniel and Lindsay, known in this neighborhood as "Daddy." The girls were Theresa and Susan (maybe others). Each of these children lived long lives, uncle Lindsay having reached the advanced age of ninety-five. Also, each had large families, probably that of uncle Harvey, my grandfather, being the largest, eighteen children in all. Today he has living twelve children, fifty-six grandchildren, eighty-five great grandchildren and some two or three great-grandchildren, totaling 155 living persons from uncle Harvey Travis, the second son of James and Rachel. It would be interesting to be able to trace both these families all the way down from the first Francis Travis, but it would make a history too long to read at this meeting of one day.

I took up uncle Harvey's family because I am familiar with the history, and because, he being my grandfather, I am naturally more interested. There are hundreds of Travises in the county, some in the southwestern part of the county with whom I have not been able to trace any relationship. You will find the name in many different states. The Travises of Marion, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas, and Alabama are all related in one way, to the first Francis Travis. C. E. Hill, Travis of the Arkansas way of the Arkansas family.

Archie Williams, a practical, law-abiding, well-tempered and courageous person, is a champion, ready to serve his country. The name does not often carry with it the same laurels, however, as it does in the case of the Williams, C. E. Hill, Travis of the Arkansas way of the Arkansas family.

Yours very truly,
E. JEFFREY TRAVIS.

Notice To Timber And

Cross Tie Buyers.

I have received numerous inquiries as to the timber on the Nunn farm. The cross tie or other timber, on that part of the John Nunn farm, which I have contracted to Roy Miltkin, is for sale. The proceeds to be applied on his purchase money notes, to enable him to get deed to the place. For further particulars, price and etc., see him on the premises, or me in my office in Marion, Ky.

Notice To Lot Holders

In Old Cemetery.

The committee has decided to purchase for the old Cemetery a few sheep or goats to keep the weeds and bushes down after it is cleaned up this time. Any one who has dead buried there, who objects to the above, should take steps at once to fence their lot and give said lots their personal attention in the future.

Notice To Members Of Farm Bureau

The members of the Crittenden Co. Farm Bureau are urgently requested to attend a meeting of that body in Mr. Bird's office at the Court House on Saturday July 28th at 1:30 P. M.

Matters of importance demand our attention on that date and it is very necessary that each local club send its delegate.

Let us have a full attendance and thereby testify our interest in Mr. Bird and his demonstration work.

VOTE FOR EDWARD D. STONE FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

Edward D. Stone has served the people for two terms in the law making department of Kentucky, I feel that it absolutely equips and qualifies him for the duties of the office of County Attorney. A man who has been elected and endorsed by the people of this district to make laws by which they are to be governed, evidently is equipped and qualified to explain such laws in the courts of this Commonwealth.

I regret very much to say that I cannot make a very close canvass of the county at this time, I cannot do this for two reasons: First, because I am very busy on the farm, making and taking care of farm products; Second, because I was assured by the people generally that I would have no opposition, but on the eleventh hour a second petition for the office of County Attorney was filed in the Republican Primary.

For the past few years this county has been plunging into debt several hundred dollars annually. This indebtedness will have to be paid by the taxpayers of Crittenden County. This county should not be heavily in debt. The County Attorney should properly discharge his duty concerning the County's appropriations and expenditures.

If nominated and elected I will do as I have always endeavored to do, give my entire time in performing the duties of this office and guarding the interests of the people as their Attorney. I will be found in my office on every official day in the year, rendering justice to every person.

As legal advisor of the fiscal court I will, if nominated and elected, be cautious in advising it concerning the expenditures of the hard earned money of the taxpayers.

I will diligently investigate and procure indictments against alleged violators of the law without favor.

I respectfully solicit the support of every republican voter, and promise, if elected, a cautious and efficient handling of the County Attorney's affairs.

Yours Truly,

EDWARD D. STONE.

THE FARMER'S FRIEND

"The people should rule," is the slogan of that popular republican, Edward D. Stone, who is a candidate for County Attorney of Crittenden County, in the Republican Primary, Saturday, August 4th, 1917.

Mr. Stone is widely known and stands high as the truest type of a gentleman in this county. He is a deserving young man and enters the race, not as a candidate of any faction, but as a true Republican, willing and ready to serve the people of the great county of Crittenden, and render to every person a square deal, if made their County Attorney.

He is recognized as one of the most logical and forceful speakers in this and adjoining counties. He has very ably led two campaigns for the legislature in this district, in which he was elected their representative. In those campaigns he placed this District in the Republican column. For four years in the law making body in this state he gave the very best service possible, serving the people beyond that of any other Representative ever sent from this district. He is now offering his services to the people of his home county.

He fulfilled every promise made by him to the people, as their Representative, and made a record of which the people of this county are proud, and if elected County Attorney he will fulfill the duties of the office.

Mr. Stone was educated in the Cumberland University, at Lebanon, Tenn., where he graduated with high honors in the class 1912, receiving the degree of LLB. He was granted license to practice law in May, 1913.—A Supporter.—Adv.

Young Men And Women Wanted.

Four hundred and eighty-three young men, from sixteen to twenty-one years of age (not subject to conscription), and two hundred and thirty-five women are wanted to take the training necessary to qualify them for positions in banks, mercantile houses, railroad offices, etc.,—positions made vacant by the first and second drafts of bookkeepers and stenographers.

YOUR MONEY BACK.

Young men who qualify at Draughon's for Shorthand work with the Government and are drafted for Government service will get back every cent of the money that they pay for tuition if they are not given office work, instead of trench work, with the Government.

We have file letters urging us to train, as fast as possible, young men and women for these positions, which pay from NINE HUNDRED TO TWELVE HUNDRED dollars a year to begin on. By the Draughon methods—the methods that business men endorse—one can learn Bookkeeping and Shorthand by mail as well as at college, and can learn by mail at one-sixth the cost of learning at college. Write to Draughon's Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. Lucy Davidson was surprised to her children and grand children to the number of 11 last Saturday when they celebrated her 73rd birthday with a family reunion at the old home place.

Mr. and Mrs. Gid Taylor live there with Mrs. Davidson but she had been on a visit to her son near Lola and arrived at home that day to find them all there awaiting her coming.

Her six children living are, 3 sons

Henrietta Taylor who lives on the old home place, Mrs. Ida and they were all present with their consorts and children with only a few exceptions. Each bountiful spread of all the good things the land affords and many gifts for mother. Her heart was made glad and every one present enjoyed the day to the fullest extent and hope she will live to Get The Happiness Habit.

Men and women should make it a part of their daily work to put as much joy and as little bitterness as possible into the lives of those about them. It is a joy indeed to come into contact with sweet-spirited men and women—people who care for their fellows and companions. There is plenty of room for improvement in all of us. Get the habit. It is the little things that count; and if they are on the side of helpfulness, the world would be changed ere the influence causing it could be recognized.—Exchange.

ASKS SUPPORT OF VOTERS

R. H. Thomas Candidate For Sheriff Appeals To The Republicans In Primary.

After being solicited by a number of friends to enter the race for sheriff of Crittenden County, I decided to do so, and am making every honorable effort I can to secure the nomination, and if nominated and elected promise a faithful, and impartial discharge of the duties of the office, and to do all in my power to enforce the law put down crime and improve the religious and moral interest of the people, and a square deal in every way, and if the republicans of Crittenden County think me a man of stability and firmness, and worthy of your support I will greatly appreciate your help.

I say to the republicans of Crittenden County go to the primary on Aug 4 and vote for the man for each office you think suited for the place, and I will cheerfully submit to your decision, and will ever remember you with gratitude for what you have done for me in the past, whether I am nominated or not, and will support my party's nominees and send all my influence to win success for them in November.

Yours truly,
R. H. Thomas.

A dark and threatening cloud came up suddenly Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock accompanied by a downpour of rain. There was a big crowd of shoppers here, many of the stores being crowded and when it became suddenly nearly dark it put business at a stand still.

The Marion Electric Light & Ice Co., phones were besieged in less time than it takes to tell it but the management realizing the situation, had already ordered the lights turned on, as quickly as possible, which was done at 3:50 o'clock when the sun was almost 3 hours high. The rain continued at intervals through the afternoon and night and also Sunday forenoon, thus making the corn crop in the hills of old Crittenden a certainty.

Card Of Thanks

We desire through the columns of the Record Press to thank the faithful people of Sisco's Chapel and adjoining neighborhood for their kindness shown us during the sudden sickness and death of our dear mother and grandmother Mrs. Docia James we feel grateful to each of you for such willing hearts may God's richest blessings rest upon you all is our prayer.

How to Know, Prevent and Cure Quickly

DEATHS

After a long illness, Mrs. Nancie Caroline Belt fell asleep at the home of her son, Jerry, Tom and Bill all of the Hebron neighborhood and two daughters, Mrs. Jim Claghorn and Mrs. Arabella Walker of Cerulean.

The funeral services were held with eager expectancy to the time when the summons should come to call her to that home, eternal in the Heavens.

She was born March 17, 1833 and was married to Lafayette Belt in 1857. She professed faith in Christ in 1856 and united with the Baptist Church at Pleasant Grove. She later moved her membership to the Methodist Church at Hebron where she remained a member until her death.

Grandma Belt as she was familiarly known by those who knew her best was a noble woman of pure Christian character who always found pleasure in doing service for others. She was a kind and loving mother and a friend always to those in need. The world is made better by having such good and noble lives spent as hers was spent. Death for her had no horrors. Death was for her but a call to step into the joys of that land of eternal sunshine and love where we expected.

GIRLS HELP IN DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Innocently Assist Woman to Hurl Baby and Self to Death.

CHARMED BY CHILD

Mother, Who Had Been Ill, Enlists Aid of Youthful Bridge Promenaders to Leap Ninety Feet to Ground.

New York.—Sadie Winkler and Sylvia Kehl, wife beyond their years in the sophistication of the East Side and its love of thrills as only the movies can blind the sensibilities of girls of fifteen and fourteen, respectively, sauntered arm in arm across the Williamsburg bridge yesterday. It was two o'clock on a sunny afternoon in spring, active when the bridge forms a playground for the thrashers of the East end of the East side and the West end of Williamsburg.

That was one reason why Sadie and Sylvia were strolling on the bridge. They took the three-cutout safety wire, and the two girls posed as easy-to-please patrons at the start of the walking, clutching at friendly baby. The child was not much to their fancy, and was dressed in a garment where from dark came to uncertainty to a burlap practically. It clung with confidence at Sadie's hand.

Attracted by Baby.

As the girls passed the Brooklyn side, the six-foot guard rail gives way to a granite structure only three feet high, the two girls poised as easy-to-please patrons at the start of the walking, clutching at friendly baby. The child was not much to their fancy, and was dressed in a garment where from dark came to uncertainty to a burlap practically. It clung with confidence at Sadie's hand.

"He's a dog," said a woman in a sleek brown suit, of which even Sadie approved as she noticed Sadie half at the command of the small fingers.

FORD'S FERRY

The farm products are all growing nicely in this neighborhood at the present time and the prospects for a good crop are unusually bright. We do not think that many of the American people are likely to starve, notwithstanding all the predictions which have been made to that effect.

Most enthusiastically do we endorse the great aeroplane construction program which is being promulgated by the American War Department and which calls for the expenditure of $600,000,000 in the building of aircraft for military purposes. The airship has proven to be a tremendously important factor in the present great conflict and if the Allies can maintain the upper hand in the sky they will conquer the enemy much quicker than they would without the aid of this great advantage.

Your correspondent took a real nice bicycle ride a few weeks ago and after it was all over he also experienced a real nice fainting spell—the only time during his whole life that he has ever collapsed from over-exertion, thus proving that bicycle riding is harder work than any farm work.

There are many people who claim that the steamboat has long since passed its greatest era of usefulness. We do not deny this assertion which so many people are making but we do deny any statement which says that the steamboat is of no further use whatever. For many years to come the river commerce will be profitable and beneficial for quite a number of people. The railroad may still be the principal means of transportation but it is certainly not the only means. There is no likelihood whatever of the steamboat being entirely done away with any time during the immediate future.

Candidates are thicker than fleas in August and each one of them is trying to impress the people what a tremendously fine fellow he is, and what a catastrophe it would be for the county if he is not nominated and elected. We are afraid there will be quite a number of disappointed ones when the final test is made at the polls. It is utterly impossible for every office seeker to be elected but some benefit at least will accrue from their candidacy. They will at least practice courtesy and politeness during the period in which they are running for office even though they should relapse back into the old rut after it is all over.

We are highly gratified to know that Gen. John J. Pershing will be the Commander-in-Chief of the American army which will be put upon the fighting line in Europe. According to all appearances, Pershing is possessed of unusual qualities as a military leader and we believe that he will conduct the operations in a most skillful, energetic manner. Under his able and efficient leadership the American troops will not suffer more than half the losses which they would sustain if they were directed by a headstrong man like Roosevelt. We are confident that Pershing will distinguish himself very highly in the coming operations and we feel sure that the glory of his achievements will cause the American people to feel proud at the mention of his name for many years to come.

Mrs. Eura Truitt is suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever. We sincerely hope that she will recover as soon as possible.

Quite a number of people from this vicinity attended Children's day at Mt. Zion on Sunday, July 8th, and it certainly proved to be some entertainment indeed. Mt. Zion has long been noted for the immense crowds which have gathered at that place and we think that the last big crowd was just as large as any that have ever been seen at Mt. Zion. There were people from almost every part of the county including a considerable number from Marion. People came in automobiles, in buggies and almost every other variety of vehicle imaginable. For fear of falsely misrepresenting the situation we will not say that everybody experienced a fine time for somebody is always half sick or failing had on an occasion like that. We firmly believe, however, that the great majority of those who were present enjoyed themselves nicely and were well pleased with the entertainment, which consisted of a beautifully arranged program on the part of both the children and grown-ups who participated in the exercises. A number of excellent exhibitions were rendered by the children, in the morning, and a number of splendid songs were given by the Marion quartette band in the afternoon. In addition to many other things, the people were also treated to a fine dinner, so sumptuous and magnificent as to be fit for the gods. It was a day which will be long remembered by those who were present.

A. S. Cannan Goes To Rosiclare, Ill.

Marion will be the loser and Rosiclare the gainer, by the deal which A. S. Cannan has recently made which places him in charge as manager of the big Company Hotel, painted and papered and have put new furniture and equipment throughout. Mr. Cannan and his estimable family will leave soon to assume charge.

We are not authorized to name the successor of Mr. Cannan in his business here, but may next week.

As manager at a good salary, the Rosiclare Mining Co. has made several efforts to get Mr. Cannan, and has now succeeded and to prove their willingness to back and stand by any good man they have had the hotel overhauled.

AMERICAN RED CROSS HOSPITAL UNITS FIRST TO ANSWER NATION'S CALL FOR HELP ON EUROPE'S BATTLEFIELDS

Organized in Peace Times, These Groups of Surgeons, Nurses and Privates Are Showing the Allies That Uncle Sam Is Prepared to Aid Them Fully in One Department at Least—This Community Must Do Its Part—We Must Give Our Time, Services, Money.

If the American Red Cross had never done anything else than organize, equip and supply the base hospitals which are now backing our armies, it would have justified its existence. Of course it has done, and still is doing, countless great things for America and for the world; but its accomplishment in the line of base hospitals is just now of prime importance.

As briefly as it may be defined, a base hospital is an institution which cares for the sick or wounded soldier from the time he is sent back from the firing line, until he is able to be removed to a hospital in his own country.

It is almost unbelievable, but nevertheless a fact, that until the American Red Cross took hold of the task a year ago, no nation in the history of the world had ever organized a base hospital until after war had been declared and the fighting begun, and the wounded men lay writhing on the ground.

Always, of course, there have been a few army surgeons with each regiment, who patched up the slightly wounded and got them back into the firing line as quickly as possible. Also, of course, there have always been in all countries some sort of hospital system for the care of the sick and wounded when they got home.

But always the intermediate institution, for the care and transportation of the sick and wounded between the front and the home hospitals, was missing. This has invariably led to a terrible congestion of wounded on the battlefields, where thousands suffered needlessly, lost arms and legs that might have been saved, or died when a little care would have preserved them.

Col. Jefferson Randolph Kean, U. S. A. Medical corps, director general of military corps of the Red Cross, has turned the former organization to a bridge of which the end spans were complete, but the middle span—the base hospital—was entirely lacking.

When a man is wounded in battle, the method of caring for him is this—dashed off, of course, by varying conditions:

He lies on the field in No Man's Land between the lines, or in the trench until he is able to drag himself away, or the stretcher bearers can reach him, and carry him to one of the little first-aid stations. These are always very near to the fighting lines where the men are fighting.

There an army surgeon stanches the flow of blood, puts a dressing on the wound to keep out infection, binds on a dressing for their wounds.

When a man is sent to the rear, he is carried by Red Cross workers under fire to waiting Red Cross ambulances in which they are conveyed to a field hospital.

Thence they are removed to the base hospital.

Splints in case of broken bones, and makes it possible for the patient to be moved to the little field hospital a short distance from the fighting line.

This field hospital is usually just sometimes a hut or a tent, or even a space in the open air sheltered by a bill or a clump of trees. It is really little more than an enlarged first-aid station, with a capacity for not more than 125 wounded, who lie on the ground on tarpaulins. There are no beds, and seldom any cots.

In France right now the supply of gauze and linen is so low that they are reported to be using old newspapers to staunch bleeding wounds. That must never happen to an American soldier. And unless the American people get behind the Red Cross with all their strength and in all their numbers, and train themselves to turn over supplies for their hospitals, it may happen.

It would be the irony of fate if a soldier from our own town—perhaps your own family, or mine—were to get gangrene in his wound, perhaps lose an arm or a leg or even his life, because we folks here had failed to furnish the dressings for his wound.

Here, for the first time, the wounded man finds himself in a real hospital, in the hands of surgeons and nurses who have the time to give his hurts every possible care.

He is put into a real bed in a real hospital, supplied with X-ray, bacteriological and pathological laboratories, a diet kitchen presided over by skilled cooks, and with surgeons and nurses drawn from America's most highly trained to wait on him. If he requires an operation, he is in the hands of the best surgeons of the land, with the finest surgical tools to do their work. And the hospital has a ample supply of wound dressings, pads, splints, hospital gowns, surgical shirts—all the thousand and one things a first-class hospital must have.

That is the service which the American Red Cross has provided for the American soldier before our country was at war—before a single American ship or unit of the American army was headed for Europe. Thirty-six of these hospitals—enough to care for the wounded of an army of a million men—have been made ready to the last strip of bandage and the last enrolled stretcher bearer. Several of them are now in France, helping to care for the wounded of the allies, and ready to care for the American soldiers who are sure to fall into their hands before many weeks.

Each of these base hospitals calls for the services of 23 surgeons, 2 dentists, 75 Red Cross nurses and 150 privates, including orderlies, ambulance drivers, stretcher bearers and clerks.

The permanent minimum equipment of each hospital consists of three carloads of beds, mattresses, scientific apparatus, operating room paraphernalia and all utensils. Units going to Europe these days, however, are taking double or triple equipment.

The consumable supplies of each hospital consists of 5 carloads of bandages, wound pads, splints, fracture pillows, dressings and hospital supplies of every kind to the number of 12,182, all packed up to army standard, packed and labeled so that surgeons and nurses can put their hands on them in a moment.

Now—from this it might seem that the Red Cross has done everything possible, and that there is nothing more to do for the base hospitals but to wait until the war is won. But to strain the point, the Red Cross can give them the benefit of all this foresight.

Now—it has been established that the supplies of bandages and splints and wound pads and gauze in a base hospital last through just about four days of heavy fighting. Then unless there were a great store of supplies to draw from, the hospital would find itself with 300 wounded on hand, and no dressings for their wounds.

Here, again, is work for the Red Cross. All over the land, wherever supplies were made for these 36 base hospitals, are women trained in making hospital supplies. It is for these women not only to stand ready to furnish other supplies, but to train still other women to take up the work; for when the Americans begin to fight there will be no stopping the stream of wounded until the war is won. And the Red Cross cannot afford to let a single fighting man die for lack of a bandage or a splint. Is our community doing its part?

In France right now the supply of gauze and linen is so low that they are reported to be using old newspapers to staunch bleeding wounds. That must never happen to an American soldier. And unless the American people get behind the Red Cross with all their strength and in all their numbers, and train themselves to turn over supplies for their hospitals, it may happen.

ENGLISH SPARROW

Passer domesticus

Length, about six and one-fourth inches. Its incessant chattering, quarrelsome disposition, and abundance and familiarity about human habitations distinguish it from our native sparrows.

Range: Resident throughout the United States and southern Canada.

Habits and economic status: Almost universally condemned since its introduction into the United States, the English sparrow has not only held its own, but has ever increased in numbers and extended its range in spite of all opposition. Its habit of driving out or even killing more beneficial species and the defiling of buildings by its droppings and by its own unsightly structures, are serious objections to this sparrow.

Moreover, in rural districts, it is destructive to grain, peas, beans, and other vegetables.

On the other hand, the bird feeds to some extent on a large number of insect pests, and this fact points to the need of a new investigation of the present economic status of the species, especially as it promises to be of service in holding in check the newly introduced alfalfa weevil, which threatens the alfalfa industry in Utah and neighboring states. In cities most of the food of the English sparrow is waste material secured from the streets.

Prominent Marion Couple

Married in Louisville.

Douglas Carnahan accompanied by his mother Mrs. Clara Carnahan, his intended Miss Anna Cox, his nephew, George Orme, and Miss Louise Clement left Marion Sunday morning on the Illinois Central train for Louisville where Mr. Carnahan and Miss Cox were united in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. J. A. Chandler, at high noon in the auditorium of Rev. Chandler's church, Monday.

The party which accompanied the couple from here were the only guest at the wedding which was a quiet affair. The happy couple left for Cincinnati, Ohio, on a bridal trip and when they return will be at home to their friends at the residence of the bride's mother on Belleville st.

The marriage of this fine couple is the culmination of a long and happy courtship and joins two prominent and wealthy families. The bride is a beautiful blonde and the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix G. Cox, who are among the county's wealthiest and owners.

The groom, tall, handsome and just arrived of age, is a son of the late W. G. Carnahan, the capitalist and statesman who died in 1911. He is a camping trip, eloping with Misses Mildred, Catherine and Ruth Moore, Elvah Pickens, Mr. Marion McConnell and others whose names we did not learn.

It is reported to be feeling the heat of the sun in nothing on the way back for a long time.

We have been following it for some time now.
